You may find this to be the easiest and quickest way to determine your current lifestyle expenses. If you use your debit card and or credit card for convenience and payoff that bill every month, simply go to your checking account statements and enter below the total dollar amount of the checks written for each month. It is important to do a 12-month cycle to ensure capturing any annual type expenses. If you use debit/credit cards and the amount is not included in the "checks written" amount, enter that in the "Debit-Credit" column. Make a note below if you had a "one-time" expense of a major purchase as that can be deducted.
